PREFACE.

At length, after six years of unremitting toil, mental and physical, I have succeeded, to the entire exclusion of every other pursuit, in accomplishing an undertaking deemed by all most arduous, by many impracticable; disheartening truly in the perspective, but in the retrospect, a source to me of sincere gratification and, I hope I may add, of honourable pride.

That any apology will be considered necessary for the publication of the present work I cannot believe: it was due to the Service—it was due also to the country. To the country, it was due that it should be made acquainted with the merits, individually, of men to whose collective efforts it is, in the main, indebted for its proud pre-eminence in the scale of nations; and upon whom it must, in days to come, rely in a great measure for its permanent security. To the Profession, it was due that some exertion should be made to furnish a public memorial of the services performed, the dangers braved, the honours attained, and the disappointments suffered, by those who have fought and bled in support of England's greatness, and who, during a long period of peace, have equally maintained her dignity, afforded protection to her commerce, and in every way guarded her interests.

Should any explanation, however, be looked for of the causes which have induced a civilian, previously unconnected with the Service, to embark in such an undertaking, the only excuse I have to offer is, that I perceived the necessity that existed for a book of the kind, and that I determined to attempt to supply it. The degree of success I may have achieved in the performance of my self-imposed task, it is not for me to estimate; but I can venture to claim credit for the most earnest zeal, the most unwearied industry, and the most undeviating impartiality in the prosecution of my labours.

The following pages will be found to comprise an account, more or less detailed, of nearly five thousand officers, including all those now deceased, (in number upwards of six hundred,) whose names are contained in the 'Navy List' for January, 1845. I have not the presumption to anticipate that I have, in every case, afforded satisfaction. He would, indeed, be over confident, and possess but a slight knowledge of human nature, who could for a moment believe that it was in his power to please so vast a number of persons as those who must of necessity be more or less interested in these records. All I can fairly hope, is that the result of my labours may be received with general favour, and that the desire I have felt to do entire justice to my subject may have proved successful to as great an extent as I could be warranted in expecting. A work of this character could not have been compiled without an extensive intercourse with the individuals to whose professional biography it is devoted; and it is with pride I confess my belief that no public writer was ever more honoured with the confidence of a profession than I have been with that of the Navy. With many, however, especially of the younger members, owing to their absence on foreign service, I have not been able to communicate; and some there are who, from a too fastidious feeling of modesty, or from accidental causes, have left me to my own resources. Whenever such difficulties have arisen, I have endeavoured, I trust not unsuccessfully, to overcome them so far as increased activity and perseverance could enable me so to do; and to obtain, from sources hardly less authentic, the materials of which fortuitous circumstances had deprived me. In all cases I have endeavoured to be as correct in my statements and as copious in my details as circumstances would permit.

For whatever errors may have crept, unconsciously on my part, into the memoirs of those who have afforded me information, I can only express my regret, and suggest as an excuse the impossibility, in a work embracing so immense a body of facts, of guarding against occasional inaccuracies. But these I trust and believe will be found to be of rare occurrence. I shall be equally sorry if faults of commission (and faults there must also be of omission) should present themselves in the histories of those who have disregarded the applications which I felt myself bound to make, in duty to them as well as to myself. In the prosecution of my task I have avoided adulation, and I hope that I have in no case rendered myself liable to the charge of having bestowed unmerited praise. I have, indeed, as a general rule, confined myself, in awarding commendation, to the language adopted in public despatches or other official documents; and in accordance with this principle, as well as with a view to rigid accuracy, I have, at no small pains, carefully examined the 'London Gazettes;' affixing in every instance to a memoir, by way of note, the date and page of the Gazette in which the officer's name stands recorded; with the single exception of occasions on which the captain of a comparatively large ship has obtained mention through the capture of privateers and letters-of-marque. With regard to Courts-martial, I have, whenever I have found it possible to do so, avoided any reference to them; the advantage to be derived from reviving the details of inquiries of this nature appearing to me anything but obvious; and I hope, for the credit of the Service, there are few, if any, of its members who would desire to enhance their reputation by recalling the errors, often trivial, of their brother officers.

Important as have been the communications I have received from members of the Naval Service, the work would have fallen far short of its present dimensions and completeness had it not been for the cordial support and countenance with which I have been honoured by the Board of Admiralty, who have most obligingly afforded me access to every record in their possession which appeared at all likely to facilitate its progress.

I have but little more to add: few besides myself can conceive the anxiety I feel for the success of an undertaking that has absorbed so many years of labour, and upon which so large an amount of capital has been expended; but I commit it with confidence to the leniency and consideration of the Service, trusting that my readers, mindful of the pains I have taken to satisfy all reasonable expectations in regard to it, and of my earnest endeavour to perform my task conscientiously and correctly, will rather give me credit for what I have achieved than censure me for what I have not.

I cannot conclude this notice without offering, in the most unequivocal terms, my acknowledgments to the present estimable Secretary of the Admiralty, Captain W. A. B. Hamilton, for the public-spirited manner in which he entered, from the date of my earliest application to him, into my views; and for the kindness with which he made known my intentions to his venerable predecessor Sir John Barrow, and after his own accession to office extended to me every facility for acquiring information. The memory of Sir John Barrow, too, I must ever revere, for the attention I experienced from him during the latter part of his official life, and for the sympathy he expressed, and the interest he appeared personally to take, in my labours. To my valued friend John Barrow, Esq., Keeper of the Records of the Admiralty, I owe more than I can well express. I could indeed scarcely find words adequate to convey my sense of the indefatigable assistance I have received at his hands throughout the progress of the work, and of the benefits I have at all times derived from his experience and his highly-prized advice.

Independently of the Admiralty, I have reason to feel gratified by the courtesy which has been exhibited towards me by members of other departments of the public service; and to no one am I more bound by obligation, and it is with heartfelt pride and pleasure I record it, than I am to William George Anderson, Esq., the Assistant Paymaster-General, both for the aid which his official position has enabled him to render me, and for the acts of personal kindness by which they have been accompanied.

It would be unjust to terminate this series of grateful acknowledgments without mentioning the aid I have received from a member of my own family, my brother, Robert Henry O'Byrne, author of the 'Representative History of Great Britain and Ireland;' to whose affectionate zeal and energetic exertions I am indebted not only for the compilation of the greater part of the Appendix, but for the collection of a large portion of the details on which the work is founded.

BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY

ALL LIVING NAVAL OFFICERS.

ABBOTT—ABSOLON—ACHMUTY.

ABBOTT. (Commander, 1841. F-P., 21; H-P., 7.)
Jonas Archer Abbott is son of the late Alderman Abbott, of Dublin; and nephew, maternally, of Vice-Admiral of the Red Sir Edw. Griffith Colpoys, K.C.B., who died Commander-in-Chief on the North America and West India station, 11 Nov. 1832.

This officer entered the Navy, 2 March, 1819, as Fst.-cl. Vol., on board the Newcastle 60, Capt. Arthur Fanshawe, bearing the flag of his uncle, the late Sir E. G. Colpoys, on the North America station, where he successively removed, as Midshipman, to the Niemen 28, Capt. Edw. Reynolds Sibly, and Bellette 18, Capt. Geo. Rich. Pechell. After an attachment of two years, in that capacity, to the Victory 104, flag-ship at Portsmouth of Sir Geo. Martin, and Blonde 46, Capt. Lord Byron, under whom he escorted from this country the remains of the late King and Queen of the Sandwich Islands, Mr. Abbott passed his examination in April, 1826; between which period and the date of his promotion to the rank of Lieutenant, 1 Oct. 1830, he further served, as Mate, on board the Melville 74, Capt. Henry Hill, guardship at Portsmouth, and Maidstone 42, bearing the broad pendant at the Cape of Good Hope of Commodore Wm. Skipsey, and afterwards commanded by Capt. Chas. Marsh Schomberg. His subsequent appointments were, on the North America and West India, Mediterranean, Lisbon, and Home stations—on the date of his promotion, as above, to the Ranger 28, Capt. Wm. Walpole—28 Sept. 1831, to the Sparrowhawk 18, Capt. Thos. Maitland—for a short time in 1833, to the Winchester 52, Capt. Hon. Wm. Wellesley—15 Oct. in the same year, to the Thunderer 84, Capt. Wm. Furlong Wise—8 May, 1838, to the Trinculo 16, Capt. Henry Edw. Coffin—and, 7 Sept. 1841, to the Dido 18, Capt. Hon. Wm. Keppel. Since his advancement to his present rank, which took place on 23 Nov. in the latter year, Commander Abbott has been on half-pay.

He married, 20 Feb. 1844, Mary Ellis, eldest daughter of Commander Jas. Agnew Stevens, R.N. Agents—Messrs. Chard.

ABSOLON. (Lieut., 1810. F-P., 36; H-P., 8.)
William Absolon was born 17 July, 1789, at Yarmouth, co. Norfolk.

This officer entered the Navy, 26 Oct. 1803, as Ordinary, on board the Romulus 36, Capts. Woodley Losack and Thos. Burton, of which ship, stationed off Harwich, he soon became Master's Mate. Removing, in Jan. 1805, to the Circe 32, commanded successively by Capts. Jonas Rose, Joseph Spear, and Hugh Pigot, he assisted at the reduction of the Danish West India islands in Dec. 1807, and was the first to hoist the British colours on the fort at the capture of Marie-galante, 2 March, 1808. On 26 Nov. in the latter year, Mr. Absolon was transferred with Capt. Pigot to the Latona 38; and in Feb. 1809, having chased the French frigate La Junon into the Saintes, was placed in command of the pinnace, with 10 men, for the purpose of reconnoitering the enemy. Finding it impossible, in fulfilment of his instructions, to avoid landing, he fell in, when on the point of re-embarking, with a strong body of militia, and after a sharp engagement, in which one man was killed, and a midshipman and three men wounded, was forced to surrender, and was sent a prisoner to Guadeloupe. In the ensuing May, however, having been exchanged, he rejoined the Latona; and on the occasion of the capture, on 18 June, of La Félicité French frigate, pierced for 42 guns, but laden with colonial produce, was made second in command of the prize. After a subsequent attachment of three months to the Thisbe 28, and Barfleur 98, flag-ships in the rivers Thames and Tagus of Hon. Sir Henry Edwin Stanhope and Hon. Geo. Cranfield Berkeley, he obtained an Acting-Lieutenancy, 5 Feb. 1810, in the Myrtle 24, Capt. Thos. Innes, to which vessel, commanded afterwards by Capts. Clement Sneyd and Henry Bourchier, he was confirmed by commission, dated 9 June in the same year. He continued to serve off the coast of Portugal, in the Myrtle, until Nov. 1813; and being then appointed under Capt. Bourchier to the First Lieutenancy of the Medina 20, sailed for Newfoundland, whence he returned in Jan. 1815. From 15 March, 1821, until the early part of 1845, he officiated as an officer of the Coast Guard. He has since been unemployed.

Lieut. Absolon married, first, in 1819, Anne Hansen, daughter of H. H. Dearsley, Esq., of Essex; and, secondly, 24 March, 1824, Isabella, daughter of P. Webster, Esq., of Craig, in the co. of Forfar, N. B., by whom he had issue seven children. He is again a widower.

ACHMUTY. (Lieut., 1819. F-P., 17; H-P., 20.)
Robert Ross Achmuty died 30 Dec. 1844. He was son of Robt. Achmuty, Esq., of Dublin; grandson of the late Thos. Achmuty, Esq., of Brianstown, co. Longford; and a near relative of Lieut.-General the gallant Sir Sam. Achmuty, G.C.B.

This officer entered the Navy, 30 Jan. 1808, as Third-cl. Boy, on board the DICTATOR 64, Capt. Donald Campbell; attained the rating of Midshipman 6 March following; and continued to serve in the Baltic until transferred in March, 1809, with the same Captain, to the AUDACIOUS 74, one of the ships employed in the ensuing expedition against Flushing. After further participating in the co-operations with the British army in the Tagus, Mr. Achmuty, in Nov. 1811, joined the WARRIOR 74, Capts. Hon. Geo. Byng and John Tremayne Rodd, under the former of whom we find him escorting the Prince of Orange to Holland in Nov. 1813; and, in the year following, a fleet of merchantmen to the West Indies. He next served, between July, 1815, and March, 1817, as Acting-Lieutenant, on the latter station, of the SABINE 16, Capts. Wm. Hall and A. Campbell, and BRISEIS 10, Capt. Geo. Domett; then returned home in the LADY HAMILTON transport; and was subsequently attached, for short periods, as Admiralty-Midshipman, to the BLOSSOM 20, Capt. Fred. Hickey, and HYACINTH 20, Capt. Alex. Renton Sharpe, on the Brazilian station; and, again as Acting-Lieutenant, to the SALISBURY 58, flag-ship in the West Indies of Rear-Admiral Donald Campbell, where he was officially promoted to the RALEIGH 18, Capts. Wm. Augustus Baumgardt and Geo. Blackman, 13 July, 1819. Mr. Achmuty returned to England, and was paid off towards the close of 1821; from which period he remained on half-pay until appointed, 27 Dec. 1841, Admiralty-Agent in a Contract Mail Steam-vessel. In this capacity he appears to have been employed until the date of his death.

He married, 27 Aug. 1822, Alicia Jane, eldest daughter of Arthur Auchmuty, Esq., M.D., of Kilmore House, Roscommon, a magistrate for that county, by whom he has left issue. AGENTS—Hallett and Robinson.

ACKERLEY. (LIEUT., 1822. F-P., 19; H-P., 18.)

CHARLES HENRY ACKERLEY is second son of the late John Hawkesley Ackerley, Esq., barrister-at-law, by Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. John Chamberlayne, of Maugersbury House, co. Gloucester; younger brother of Joseph Chamberlayne Chamberlayne, Esq., of Maugersbury House, who assumed that name on inheriting the large estates of his maternal uncle, Edmund John Chamberlayne, Esq.; and cousin of Commander John Chamberlayne, R.N.

This officer entered the Navy, 1 Feb. 1810, as Fst.-cl. Vol., on board the SHELDRAKE 16, Capt. John Thicknesse. In Sept. following he became Midshipman of the ADAMANT 50, bearing the flag at Leith of Rear-Admiral Wm. Albany Otway, and in that ship and the DAPHNE 22, commanded in the Baltic by Capt. Jas. Green, he continued to serve, until the conclusion of hostilities in 1814. During the first three years of the peace he appears to have been employed in the East Indies on board the IPHIGENIA 36, Capts. Andrew King and John Hancock; after which (with the exception of an attachment of three months as Acting-Lieutenant, during the year 1821, to the DRAKE sloop, Capt. Baker) he served, until March, 1823, on board the SIR FRANCIS DRAKE, flag-ship at Newfoundland of Sir Chas. Hamilton. Having been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant on 20 of the previous Nov., Mr. Ackerley afterwards joined—21 June, 1824, the WELLESLEY 74, Capt. Graham Eden Hamond, employed on particular service—23 Dec. 1825, the SPARTIATE 76, Capt. Fred. Warren—and, 23 March, 1827, the OCEAN 80, Capt. Patrick Campbell, guard-ship at Plymouth, but afterwards charged with the conveyance of the British forces to Portugal, and finally attached to the squadron in the Mediterranean. He was placed on half-pay in May, 1830, and has not since been afloat.

Lieut. Ackerley was presented, 2 June, 1838, with the large silver medal of the "Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures, and Commerce," for his safety rods for ships' boats.

ACKLAND. (LIEUT., 1815. F-P., 15; H-P., 26.)

EDWARD ACKLAND entered the Navy, 22 July, 1806, as Fst.-cl. Vol., on board the ORESTES 16, Capt. Hon. Geo. Poulett, under whose successor, Capt. John Richards Lapenotiere, he took part in the expedition against Copenhagen in Aug. and Sept. 1807, and was subsequently employed in the blockade of Elsineur, as likewise in affording protection to the trade passing through the Sound. In Dec. 1807, he joined the THALIA 36, Capts. Thos. Manby and Jas. Giles Vashon, with the former of whom he proceeded in supposed pursuit of two French frigates to Davis Strait; and then, after a fruitless exposure of several weeks to many severe hardships, and a prolonged stay on the coast of Labrador, returned to Europe. Continuing to serve in the THALIA, Mr. Ackland took part in the expedition to Flushing in 1809, and eventually visited the West Indies, whence we find him, in May 1812, escorting home a very numerous convoy. In the following August, immediately on passing his examination, he joined the IMPREGNABLE 98, successive flag-ships on the Home station of Admiral Wm. Young, and of H.R.H. the Duke of Clarence, under the latter of whom he brought over to England the Emperor of Russia and the King of Prussia. While next serving in the INSOLENT 14, Capt. Wm. Kelly, he was promoted to the rank he now holds, by commission dated 17 Feb. 1815. Since that period, with two intervals, from 15 June, 1820, to 19 Oct. 18[illegible] and from 15 Jan. 1831 to 1834, when he held a command in the Coast Guard, he has been on half-pay.

A'COURT. (CAPTAIN, 1811. F-P., 17; H-P., 34.)

EDWARD HENRY A'COURT, born 10 Dec. 1783, is second son of the late Col. Sir Wm. Pierce Ashe A'Court, Bart., M.P., by his second wife, Letitia, daughter of Henry Wyndham, Esq., of Salisbury; brother of Lord Heytesbury, late Viceroy of Ireland, and of Col. Chas. Ashe A'Court, K.H., one of the Poor-law Commissioners; brother-in-law of the Earl of St. Germans, and of the Hon. Philip Pleydell Bouverie, the brother of the Earl of Radnor and of Rear-Admiral Bouverie; and uncle of the Hon. W. H. A. A. Holmes, M.P. for the Isle of Wight.

This officer entered the Royal Naval Academy in Jan. 1796, and embarked, in Jan. 1800, as Midshipman, on board the CLYDE 38, Capt. Chas. Cunningham. After serving for some time in the Channel and off the Western Islands, he became successively attached to the ENDYMION 40, Capt. Henry Garrett, lying at Portsmouth—FALCON sloop, Capt. Henry Manaton Ommanney, off Newfoundland—and PLUTO, Capt. Henry Barwell, on the same station. In Jan. 1803, he was appointed Master's Mate of the ISIS 50, Capt. Wm. Grenville Lobb, in the North Sea—then, of the BRITANNIA 100, Capt. Lord Northesk, at Portsmouth—and, in June of the same year, of the BLANCHE 36, Capt. Zachary Mudge. In Nov. following he acquired great distinction by a gallant exploit off St. Domingo, where, in command of a boat with only five hands, he succeeded, after a severe struggle, in capturing a French schooner, with a detachment on board, besides other passengers, &c. Robt. [illegible] thirty and forty soldiers. Being sld, 17 Nov. 18 event appointed Acting-Lieut. [illegible] ATERWITCH [illegible] 74, Capts. John [illegible] [illegible] Walker, the subject of this memoir, in conjunction with Lieut. Rich. Henry Muddle, took command, 31 Jan. 1804, of a body of seamen who were landed at Curaçoa, and participated in the gallant but unsuccessful attack on that island. His promotion meeting with official sanction 13 Feb. following, he subsequently joined, 9 Oct. 1805, 15 July, 1806, and 21 Jan. 1808, the MEDIATOR 44, Capts. John Seaton and Wm. Furlong Wise, VETERAN 64, flag-ship of Vice-Admiral Jas. Rich. Dacres, and, as Lieut.-Commander, the SANDWICH schooner—all on the Jamaica station, where he was confirmed in the command, 10 June, 1808, of the SHARK sloop. In Oct. of the same year he removed to the PURICAN 18, and in Oct. 1810, he next joined the HAMPY 18, at [illegible]

Cape of Good Hope; whence, on his advancement to Post-rank, 29 March, 1811, he returned home in temporary command of the OWEN GLENDOWER 36. He afterwards officiated as Captain, from Feb. 1813 to Sept. 1815, of the PERSEUS 22, on the Mediterranean, Newfoundland, and Halifax stations. Since the latter date, with the exception of a brief command, in 1835, of the JUPITER 38, he has been unemployed.

Capt. A'Court, in 1820, was returned to Parliament as member for Heytesbury, which he continued to represent until 1831. He has sat, since 1837, for the borough of Tamworth, in conjunction with Sir Robert Peel. On 30 Nov. 1841, he was appointed a Naval Aide-de-Camp to the Queen.

ADAM, K.C.B. (VICE-ADMIRAL OF THE RED, 1837. F-P., 33; H.P., 24.)

SIR CHARLES ADAM, born 6 Oct. 1780, is eldest surviving son of the late Right Hon. Wm. Adam, of Blair Adam, co. Kinross, Lord Chief Commissioner of the Scotch Jury Court, by Eleanor, second daughter of Charles, tenth Lord Elphinstone; brother of General Sir Fred. Adam, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., Colonel of the 21st foot, Governor of the Ionian Islands, and late Governor of Madras; and nephew of Admiral Lord Keith.

This officer entered the Navy, 15 Dec. 1790, as Captain's Servant, on board the ROYAL CHARLOTTE yacht, Capt. Sir Hyde Parker, lying at Deptford; and on removing, in 1793, to the ROBUST 74, commanded by his uncle, the Hon. Geo. Keith Elphinstone, was present, as Midshipman, at the investment and subsequent evacuation of Toulon. In the GLORY 98, Capt. John Elphinstone, which ship he next joined, Mr. Adam bore a warm part in Lord Howe's action, 1 June, 1794. He appears to have been then successively transferred to the BARFLEUR 98, and MONARCH 74, bearing each the flag of his relative, the Hon. Sir G. K. Elphinstone, whose official approbation he elicited for his signal services as Acting-Lieutenant in command of the SQUIB gun-brig, at the carrying of the important pass of Mayenbergh, during the operations which led to the surrender of the Cape of Good Hope in 1795.* In Oct. of the latter year, being appointed Acting-Lieutenant of the VICTORIOUS 74, Capt. Wm. Clark, he proceeded to the East Indies, and on 9 Sept. 1796, participated, in company with the ARROGANT 74, in a long conflict of nearly four hours with six heavy French frigates under M. Sercey, which terminated in the separation of the combatants, after each had been much crippled, and the VICTORIOUS occasioned a loss of 17 men killed, and 53, including her Captain, wounded. Mr. Adam, whom we subsequently find officiating as Acting-Commander and Captain, from Aug. 1796 to Aug. 1797, of the SWIFT sloop, and CARYSFORT frigate, was at length, on his return to England in the POLYPHEMUS 64, Capt. Geo. Lumsdaine, confirmed to a Lieutenancy, 8 Feb. 1798, in his old ship, the BARFLEUR, Capt. Jas. Rich. Dacres. On 16 May following, he obtained official command of the FALCON fire-ship, but was soon afterwards transferred to the ALBATROSS 18, and ordered with despatches to the Cape of Good Hope, whence he ultimately accompanied the expedition sent to the Red Sea for the purpose of expelling the French in their meditated designs [illegible]. Being advanced to the command, 12 June, 1799, of LA FLEBILLE, of 48 guns and 300 men, Capt. Adam, while in that ship, assisted at the capture and destruction, 23 Aug. 1800, of 5 Dutch armed vessels and 22 merchantmen, in Batavia Roads—made prize, in Oct. following, of 24 Dutch proas, four of which mounted 6 guns each—and on 19 Aug. 1801, off Mahé, the principal of the Seychelle islands, took, with the loss only of two men killed and a midshipman slightly wounded, after a gallant action of 20 minutes, amidst rocks and shoals, and under fire from a battery on shore, the French frigate La Chiffonne, of 42 guns and 296 men, of whom 23 were killed and 30 wounded.† On arriving with his trophy at Madras, he was presented by the Insurance Company at that place with an elegant sword, valued at 200 guineas, and the merchants at Calcutta also subscribed to him a sword and piece of plate. Having at length returned to England, and been appointed to the command, 23 May, 1803, of LA CHIFFONNE, which had been added to the navy as a 36-gun frigate, Capt. Adam cruized with success in the North Sea and Channel until the summer of 1805, and on 10 June in that year, with the FALCON sloop, CLINKER gun-brig, and FRANCES armed cutter, under his orders, after a chase of nine hours, during which the British suffered some loss from the incessant fire of the forts along shore, drove under the batteries of Fécamp a division of the French flotilla, consisting of 2 corvettes and 15 gun-vessels, carrying in all 51 guns, 4 eight-inch mortars, and 3 field-pieces, accompanied by 14 transports. While next in command, from 27 Aug. 1805, to 6 Apr. 1810, of the RESISTANCE 38, he witnessed Sir John Warren's capture, 13 March, 1806, of the Marengo 80, flag-ship of Admiral Linois, and 40-gun frigate Belle Poule—brought a considerable quantity of freight home from Vera Cruz in Feb. 1807—took, 27 Dec. following, L'Aigle privateer, of 14 guns and 66 men—conveyed a large body of general officers to the coast of Portugal in 1808—afterwards bore the present king of the French from Port Mahon to Palermo—and was otherwise actively and usefully employed. On removing from the RESISTANCE to the INVINCIBLE 74, Capt. Adam commenced a series of very effectual co-operations with the patriots on the coast of Catalonia, where, and on other parts of the coast of Spain, he carried on for a considerable time the duties of Senior Officer, and greatly annoyed the enemy.* In particular, at the defence of Tarragona, in May and June, 1811, he highly distinguished himself under Sir Edw. Codrington; and in May, 1812, he directed with characteristic zeal and ability the operations which led to the capture of the town of Almeria, where the castle of San Elmo, situated upon an almost inaccessible rock, and all the sea defences and batteries which protected the anchorage of the place, were blown up.† In June, 1813, after a siege of five days, Capt. Adam took, with the assistance of Lieut.-Col. Prevost of the 67th regiment, the fort of St. Philippe, in the Col de Balaguer, near Tortosa, armed with 12 pieces of ordnance, including 2 ten-inch mortars and 2 howitzers, with a garrison of 101 officers and men.‡ He likewise, while in the same ship, acquired the approval of Sir Edw. Pellew, the Commander-in-Chief, and of the Board of Admiralty, for the successful manner in which he conducted an important negociation with the Dey of Algiers, having for its object a cessation of the depredations which had been for some time carried on by that potentate on the subjects of the Spanish government. Shortly after the paying off of the INVINCIBLE, Capt. Adam, on 16 May, 1814, assumed the special and temporary command of the IMPREGNABLE 98, bearing the flag of H.R.H. the Duke of Clarence, in which ship he landed the Emperor of Russia and the King of Prussia at Dover on the evening of the 6 June, and was afterwards present at the grand naval review held at Spithead. He left the IMPREGNABLE on the 29th of the latter month, but was nominated, 15 Dec. following, Acting-Captain of the ROYAL SOVEREIGN yacht, in which he continued until 7 Feb. 1816. Being re-appointed to that vessel, 20 July, 1821, he accompanied George IV. in his visits to Ireland and Scotland, and was occasionally engaged in attendance on other Royal personages. He was superseded in the ROYAL SOVEREIGN on his promotion to Flag-rank, 27 May, 1825; and, attaining the rank of Vice-Admiral 10 Jan. 1837, was subsequently employed as Commander-in-Chief in North America and the West Indies, with his flag on board the ILLUSTRIOUS 72, from 17 Aug. 1841, until May, 1845. He has since been on half-pay.

ADAMS. (LIEUT., 1815. F-P., 7; H-P., 33.)

This officer entered the Navy 8 May, 1807, as Fst.-cl. Vol. on board the PORCUPINE 24, Capt. Hon. Henry Duncan, with whom he continued to serve in the MERCURY 28, and IMPERIEUSE 38, on the Mediterranean station, until the conclusion of hostilities in 1814. During his attachment to the PORCUPINE, Mr. Adams was instrumental to the cutting out, on the night of 10 July, 1808, of a large polacre ship of 8 guns and upwards of 20 men, moored close to the beach on the coast of Romania, within pistol-shot distance of two batteries and a tower, and of three heavy gun-boats, to whose conjoined fire, as well as that of a body of troops, he was for a considerable time exposed.† He subsequently, when in the MERCURY, in the spring of 1809, assisted at the capture of Capo d'Istria, a town near Trieste, and in an attack made in company with the SPARTAN 38, on Pesaro and Ceseratico, where the fortifications were destroyed, and 25 sail of merchantmen taken. While in the IMPÉRIEUSE, Mr. Adams further participated in the gallant capture and destruction, 2 Nov. 1811, in conjunction with the THAMES 32, of 10 gun-boats and 22 richly-laden feluccas, defended by a strong tower and two batteries in the harbour of Palinuro, on the coast of Calabria, at which place the British were opposed by a land force of 700 men. He next contributed, 27 June, 1812, to the destruction of a French convoy, and of the batteries at Languelia and Alassio—was also present, on 17 Aug. in the same year, in a spirited skirmish with a powerful Neapolitan squadron in the Bay of Naples—and, in 1813-14, witnessed the capture of Port D'Anzo, and the operations against Leghorn and Genoa. He then returned home on board the APOLLO 38, Capt. Edwards Lloyd Graham, and since his promotion, 6 March, 1815, has been unemployed. AGENT—Joseph Woodhead.

ADAMS. (CAPTAIN, 1843. F-P., 32; H-P., 9.)
JOHN ADAMS is cousin of Lieut. Chas. Jas. Adams, R.N.

This officer entered the Navy, 8 June, 1806, as a Volunteer, on board the SCOUT 18, Capt. Wm. Raitt, under whom, during a period of three years and a half, he saw much active service, bore a part in many gun-boat actions, and, among other vessels, assisted in destroying, after a sharp engagement, a notorious privateer, the Fort of Gibraltar. He was also present, as Midshipman, in a very gallant encounter off Genoa between the boats of the SCOUT and a French squadron, consisting of a brig of 20 guns, one of 18, and seven gun-boats, protected by a heavy fire from several batteries on shore, in face of which the largest of the enemy's vessels was sunk, and the remainder beaten off, with a loss, however, to the British of the Master and 11 men killed, and upwards of 30 wounded. On the night of 31 Oct. 1809, Mr. Adams further served in the boats of the SCOUT, and of a squadron under Lieut. John Tailour, at the capture and destruction, after a fearful struggle and a loss to the assailants of 15 men killed and 55 wounded, of the armed store-ship Lamproie, of 16 guns and 116 men, bombards Victoire and Grondeur, and armed xebec Normande, with a convoy of seven merchantmen, defended by numerous strong batteries, in the Bay of Rosas. Removing next in succession to the VOLONTAIRE and CAMBRIAN frigates, both commanded by Capt. Chas. Bullen, he joined in various other cutting-out affairs; witnessed the reduction of the island of Pomegue, near Marseilles; and co-operated in the defence of Tarragona in May and June, 1811. Until the receipt of his first commission, dated 16 Feb. 1813, Mr. Adams afterwards served in the Channel and Mediterranean, on board the BULWARK 74, Capts. Sir Rich. King and Thos. Browne, CHRISTIAN VII. 80, Capt. Henry Lidgbird Ball, and GRASSHOPPER 18, Capts. Henry Robt. Battersby and Sir Chas. Burrard. His subsequent appointments were—31 May, 1815, to the AJAX 74, Capt. Geo. Mundy—17 April, 1819, to the HIND 20, Capt. Sir Chas. Burrard—24 Sept. 1822, to the WINDSOR CASTLE 74, Capt. Chas. Dashwood, of the tender belonging to which ship he was for some time intrusted with the command—12 Jan. 1824, as First Lieutenant, to the GRASSHOPPER 18, Capt. John Geo. Aplin—3 Nov. 1824, to the command, on the Newfoundland station, of the PELTER gun-brig—1 March, 1826, to the RAMILLIES 74, Capt. Hugh Pigot, by whom he was also invested with the charge of a tender—20 Oct. 1826, and 17 Sept. 1828, as Senior, to the HARRIER and CHILDERS sloops, both commanded by Capt. Wm. Morier, for his exertions in saving the latter of which, when nearly wrecked in a violent gale off Yarmouth, he received the approbation of the Admiralty—4 May, 1829, in a similar capacity, to the ATHOLL 28, Capt. Alex. Gordon, on the coast of Africa—6 Jan. 1830, to the command of the PLUMPER 12, on the same station, where, in a small gig with only five men, he gallantly effected the capture, 7 Nov. following, of the Maria, of 6 guns and 44 men, having on board 512 slaves, and was otherwise very successful—23 July, 1831, as First, to the ALFRED 50, Capt. [illegible] Maunsell, in the Mediterranean—and [illegible]54, to the command of the W[illegible] in which vessel he served under the orders of Lord John Hay on the north coast of Spain, [illegible] Spain successful in his anti-slavery [illegible] new of [illegible]rican station. Attaining the rank of Commander, 10 Jan. 1837, Capt. Adams was next, on 19 Jan. 1839, appointed to the ACORN 16, destined for the same service as was latterly the WATERWITCH. Returning, therefore, to the coast of Africa, he renewed his operations against the negro traffic, and during a prolonged servitude of four years and eight months, during part of which period he had charge of the station and squadron at Mozambique, cruized with wonderful activity and good fortune. Among the prodigious number of prizes made by the ACORN, we may instance the capture, 6 July, 1841, after a running fight, of the Gabriel, a piratical slave brig, notorious for its injury to commerce and the frequency of its insults to the British flag. Capt. Adams' long, arduous, and highly useful services were at length rewarded, on his return to England, with a Post-commission, dated 18 Dec. 1843. He has since been on half-pay.

Capt. Adams at present holds the civil appointment of Slave Commissioner at Loango. Having lost his first wife in Sept. 1843, he married, secondly, in 1846, Elizabeth Hurst, daughter of Henry Ellis, Esq., of the city of Dublin. AGENT—Joseph Woodhead.

JOHN ADAMSON entered the Navy, 21 June, 1803, as Midshipman, on board the BRITANNIA 100, Captain, afterwards Rear-Admiral, the Earl of Northesk, under whom he fought as Master's Mate at Trafalgar, 21 Oct. 1805, and on the completion of the victory was sent to assist in navigating the Berwick, one of the captured 74's. While next attached, from 1806 until 1809, to the LAVINIA 40, Capt. Lord Wm. Stuart, on the Channel and Mediterranean stations, he witnessed the surrender of a frigate and store-ship—assisted on different occasions in cutting seven merchantmen from under the enemy's batteries—was once sent to Malta in combined charge of two prizes—and for upwards of two years had charge of a watch. Being invested with the command, in July, 1809, of a gun-boat mounting a long 24-pounder forward and a carronade abaft, with a complement of 37 men, Mr. Adamson, who did not pass his examination until some months afterwards, took an active part in all the operations connected with the expedition to the Walcheren, and was particularly praised by the present Sir Geo. Cockburn for the precision of his fire during the bombardment of Flushing. After a further servitude in the FORMIDABLE 98, Capt. Jas. Nicoll Morris, and VICTORY 100, bearing the flag of Sir Jas. Saumarez (to a Lieutenancy in which ship he was confirmed 6 July, 1811), he joined, early in 1812, the HANNIBAL 74, bearing the flag of Rear-Admiral Philip Chas. Durham, with whom he continued actively to serve, in the CHRISTIAN VII. 80, and BULWARK 74, on the Home station, until Nov. 1813. He was then successively appointed [redacted] of the ELK 20, Capt. John Curran, lying [redacted]outt., [redacted] FAVORITE 18, Capt. Hon. Jas. Ashley Maude, in which latter vessel we find him returning home from America with the ratification of the treaty concluded at Ghent between Great Britain and the United States, and subsequently employed in the East Indies in co-operation with the army against the province of Cutch. The FAVORITE being paid off in June, 1817, Mr. Adamson remained unemployed until Nov. 1825, when he obtained an appointment as Agent for Transports afloat. He continued in that service, commanding successively the VIRILIA, HOPE, CATO, and NEVA transports, in every quarter of the globe, until again placed on half-pay, 22 May, 1832, on which occasion he received a very flattering, unsolicited letter of approbation from the Commissioner at the head of the Transport department. Harris, under whom (with the exception of a brief attachment, during the summer of 1810, to the RUSSELL 74, flag-ship of Rear-Admiral Wm. O'Brien Drury) he continued principally to serve, both in the BARRACOUTA and in the SIR FRANCIS DRAKE frigate, the last two years as Lieutenant (commission dated 9 Aug. 1811), until June, 1813. This officer entered the Royal Naval College 16 Feb. 1808; and embarked, 21 Dec. 1810, as a Volunteer, on board the CRESCENT 38, Capt. John Quilliam, with whom he continued to serve, as Midshipman and Master's Mate, on the Baltic, Newfoundland, and West India stations, until April, 1815. During that period he saw a good deal of boat service, was often in collision with the enemy's batteries, and assisted at the capture, 16 Sept. 1813, of the Elbredge Gerry, American privateer, of 14 guns and 66 men. He afterwards joined the TIGRE 74, Capt. John Halliday, and VILLE DE PARIS and LEANDER, bearing the respective flags of Admirals Lord Keith and David Milne. On his return, in the latter ship, from Algiers, where, during the bombardment, he had been intrusted with the charge of a boat, for the purpose of burning one of the enemy's frigates, and had been wounded, Mr. Aitchison was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant, by commission dated 16 Sept. 1816. His next appointment appears to have been, 13 Sept. 1819, to the BRISK 10, Capts. John Wm. Montagu and Edw. Stewart; in which sloop, of whose boats he had command on the river Tyne during a serious dispute between the colliers and the civil authorities, he remained until transferred, 22 Sept. 1821, to the Coast Blockade, as Supernumerary-Lieutenant of the SEVERN 40, Capt. Wm. McCulloch. With his name afterwards on the books of the RAMILLIES 74, and HYPERION 42, Capts. Wm. McCulloch and Wm. Jas. Mingaye, he continued to be employed on the Coast Blockade until Aug. 1826; but since that period he has not held any further appointment.

He was subsequently employed for six weeks in the boats of the TONNANT during the operations against New Orleans; and further commanded the small-arm men landed from the VENGEUR to assist in the reduction of Fort Bowyer in Feb. 1815. Being appointed, 1 May, 1816, to the LEANDER 60, Capt. Edw. Chetham, Mr. Aitchison served at the ensuing bombardment of Algiers, and on that occasion commanded the forecastle and gangway guns. After a subsequent servitude of nearly three years as Flag-Lieutenant to Sir David Milne on the North America station, he was promoted to the rank of Commander, by commission dated 17 July, 1819; and on 3 April, 1826, was next appointed to the CLIO 18, in the North Sea. Barrington Dacres and Andrew Fitzherbert Evans, he afterwards, from Nov. 1801, until the early part of 1807, served uninterruptedly with Capt. While in the latter ship, he took part in a desperate skirmish with a body of Turks on the island of Prota, 27 Feb. 1807, and was severely wounded at the re-passage of the Dardanells.* Being promoted to a Lieutenancy (by commission dated 28 Feb. 1807) in the STANDARD 64, Capt. Thos. Harvey, he subsequently, on 26 June, 1808, succeeded, with the yawl belonging to that ship under his orders, in capturing a French despatch-boat, Le Léger, although exposed to a sharp fire of musketry from the island of Corfu.† In the course of 1809-10 we next find Mr. Alexander successively joining the GLOMMEN 18, Capt. Chas. Pickford, MOSELLE, Capt. Henry Boys, KEBE 38, Capt. John Fyffe, and, as Acting-Flag-Lieutenant to Vice-Admiral Bartholomew Sam. Rowley, the POLYPHEMUS 64, all on the Jamaica station; where he lost the FLEUR DE LA MER, 8 Jan. 1811, then assumed command of the DÉCOUVERTE, and was promoted, by commission dated 14 March in the same year, to that of the SHARK sloop. This officer entered the Navy, early in 1799, as Fst.-cl. Vol., on board the HAERLEM 64, Capt. Geo. Burlton, and after an attachment to the SERPENT, Capt. Thos. Roberts, joined the DÉSIRÉE 36, Capt. His subsequent appointments were, —in 1808-9, to the TRENT, VENERABLE, and ST. DOMINGO, flag-ships of Admirals Jas. Hawkins Whitshed, Sir Rich. John Strachan, and Sir John Borlase Warren—and, on 22 Dec. 1812, to the DRAGON 74, Capts. Fras. Augustus Collier and Robt. Barrie. While in the ST. DOMINGO, under Sir R. Strachan, with whom he served for three years, Mr. Alexander joined in the attack upon Flushing in Aug. 1809—frequently took part in gun-boat engagements—and was twice wounded. In April and May, 1813, during the period of his attachment to the DRAGON, he was the Senior Lieutenant employed in the operations against the American towns, flotillas, and military stations in the Chesapeake; and for his conduct on all occasions, but particularly in the attack upon French Town, was honoured with the public thanks of Rear-Admiral Cockburn.* In the summer of 1814 he commanded a division of boats under Capt. Barrie in the several attacks on Commodore Barney's flotilla in the Patuxent—repelled, when on shore at Parker's Point, with only 38 marines and a few seamen, an assault made by 120 of the United States regular cavalry, supported by 500 infantry with field-pieces—had charge of a division of boats at the capture of Forts St. Peter and St. Mary—and was eventually employed at Cumberland Island. Mr. Alexander, whose services during the whole of this period drew forth the warm approbation of Capt. Barrie, attained the rank of Commander 13 June, 1815. He was afterwards employed in raising men at Cork, from Sept. 1815 to Feb. 1816; but since the latter date has been on half-pay.

This officer entered the Navy, 7 May, 1793, as Captain's Servant, on board the DIOMEDE 44, Capt. Matthew Smith, and was in that ship when she struck on a sunken rock and was lost, off Trincomalee, 2 Aug. 1795. Joining, then, the HEROINE 32, Capt. Alan Hyde Gardner, he co-operated in the ensuing reduction of the Dutch settlements in the island of Ceylon. He was ultimately promoted, from the SUFFOLK 74, bearing the flag of Rear-Admiral Peter Rainier, to a Lieutenancy, 18 June, 1799, in the VICTORIOUS 74, Capts. Wm. Clark and Pulteney Malcolm; after which, on his return from the East Indies, he joined, 29 July, 1803, the SPENCER 74, Capt. Hon. Robt. Sam. Warren. On 7 July, 1809, in consequence of the death of the gallant Lieut. Joseph Hawkey, who fell early in the action, Mr. Allen succeeded to the command of the boats of the latter ship, and of the IMPLACABLE 74, MELPOMENE 38, and PROMETHEUS 18, seventeen in number, containing about 270 officers and men, in the course of a dashing attack on a Russian flotilla of 8 gun-boats and 12 merchantmen, carrying altogether double the complement of men, lying at anchor under Porcola Point, on the coast of Finland, and centred between two rocks, from the summits of which they were protected by a shower of grape.* Notwithstanding all this, six of the gun-boats were irresistibly boarded and carried, another was sunk, and the whole convoy, with a large armed ship, captured. The loss of the British amounted to 17 men killed and 37 wounded: that of the Russians is reported to have been at least 63 killed, and a proportionate number wounded. For this daring and most important achievement, Lieut. Allen received the sincere thanks of the Commander-in-Chief, and a Commander's commission bearing date the day of the action. Unable, however, to procure further employment, he at length retired with the rank of Captain, 10 Sept. 1840.

Allen, an officer in the Army, served throughout the whole of the Peninsular War, and, in the 1st Line Battalion of the German Legion, shared in the glories of Waterloo; his next brother, David, a Captain in the 2nd Madras Cavalry, died Commandant of Nellore, in 1832; and his youngest brother, James, is a retired Major of the 7th Bengal Cavalry.

This officer entered the Navy, 1 June, 1800, as Midshipman, on board the OSPREY 18, commanded by his uncle, Capt. John Watts, and afterwards by Capts. Geo. Irvine, Rich. Dalling Dunn, and Geo. Younghusband, on the Africa and West India stations. While under the latter officer, he commanded the OSPREY's launch at the reduction of Ste. Lucie, 22 Oct. 1803—was also present at the ensuing surrender of Tobago—and, on 23 March, 1804, took part in a gallant action of an hour and a half, in which, with a loss to herself of one man killed and 16 wounded, the OSPREY beat off the French frigate-built privateer L'Egyptienne, of 36 guns and 248 men, 8 of whom were killed and 19 wounded. Removing next, with Capt. Allen, in the course of the same and of the following years, accompanied the expedition to Copenhagen (where he commanded an armed boat in several rencounters with the enemy's flotilla) and escorted home from Lisbon the surrendered Russian fleet. vessels on the coast of Africa. In May, 1812, he became Midshipman of the Barfleur 98, Capt. Sir Thos. Masterman Hardy, bearing the flag off Lisbon of Hon. Geo. Cranfield Berkeley, with the former of whom he removed, towards the close of the same year, to the Ramillies 74. In that ship Mr. Anderson took an active part in the chief operations of the American war, including the blockade of Commodore Decatur's squadron in New London, the attacks upon Washington, Baltimore, and New Orleans, and the bombardment of Stonington. He also, among other detached services, assisted, in the boats of the Ramillies and of a squadron, at the capture, 14 Dec. 1814, on Lake Borgne, of five American gun-boats under Commodore Jones, which did not surrender until the British, after a fierce contest, had been occasioned a loss of 17 men killed and 77 wounded. Between Nov. 1815, and 1817, in which year he passed his examination, Mr. Anderson was next employed in the Malta 80, and Rivoli 74, commanded at Plymouth and Portsmouth by Capts. Sir Chas. Ogle and Aiskew Paffard Hollis. Until March, 1822, he afterwards served as Admiralty Midshipman, chiefly on the South America station, in the Cherokee 10, Capt. Theobald Jones, Owen Glendower 42, Capt. Hon. Robt. Cavendish Spencer, and Superb 74, and Creole 42, bearing each the broad pendant of his old Commander, Sir T. M. Hardy. He then in succession joined, as Acting-Lieutenant, the Alacrity 10, Capt. Hon. Fred. Spencer, Doris 42, Capt. Fred. Edw. Venables Vernon, and Beaver 10, Capts. Thos. Bourchier and Wm. Townshend Dance. Quitting the latter vessel in Oct. 1823, Mr. Anderson (who had been officially promoted on 1 of the previous March) was subsequently appointed—10 March, 1826, as First Lieutenant, to the Cadmus 10, Capts. Chas. Hallowell and Chas. Gordon—23 June, 1827, to the Ganges 84, flag-ship of Sir Robt. Waller Otway, on the Brazilian station—in 1830-1, as Senior, to the Britomart and Savage sloops, both commanded by Lord Edw. Russell, on the coast of Ireland—18 July, 1833, to the Coast Guard—and, 3 Feb. 1837, to the Howe 120, in which ship, under the successive flags of Sir R. W. Otway and Sir Fras. Mason, he served for five years as First Lieutenant, at the Nore, and in the Mediterranean. He was at length advanced to his present rank 25 Feb. 1842; and, since 14 Dec. 1844, has been in command of the Ranger sloop, on the coast of Africa.

ANDERSON. (Lieut., 1816. f-p., 13; h-p., 31.)

James Anderson (d) entered the Navy, 14 Sept. 1803, as a Volunteer, on board the Ulysses 44, Capt. Edw. Henry Columbine, on the West India station. He there became Midshipman, in April, 1804, of the Express, Lieut.-Commanders Glanville, Swiney, Spearing, and Senhouse; and, in Jan. 1809, Master's Mate of the Savage 16, Capts. Wm. Robilliard and Wm. Ferrie. After a further servitude of two years and four months in the Favorite and Recruit sloops, Capts. Benj. Clement and Humphrey Fleming Senhouse (by the latter of whom he appears to have been constituted Prize Master of a captured vessel), and in the Salvador del Mundo, flag-ship of Sir Robt. Calder, all on the Home station, Mr. Anderson was appointed Master's Mate, 3 Sept. 1812, of the Landrail cutter, of 4 twelve-pounder carronades and 19 men, Lieut.-Commanders John Hill and Robt. Dan. Lancaster. On 12 July, 1814, the latter vessel, after two hours of hard fighting, in which seven of her men were wounded, was unfortunately taken by the American privateer schooner Syren, mounting 7 comparatively heavy guns, with a complement of 75 men, 3 of whom were killed and 15 wounded. During the remainder of the war, Mr. Anderson was in consequence confined in an American prison. Being then released, he became successively attached to the Tonnant 80, bearing the flag at Bermuda of Hon. Sir Alex. Cochrane, and Prince, Queen Charlotte, and Bulwark, flag-ships on the Home station of Sir. Edw. Thornbrough and Sir Chas. Rowley. Since his promotion, which took place 1 May, 1816, he has been on half-pay. Agent.—J. Hinxman.

ANDERSON. (Retired Commander, 1817.)

William Anderson (a) was made a Lieutenant, 24 April, 1782; and retired with the rank of Commander, 12 July, 1817.

He is third on the list.

ANDOE. (Lieut., 1815. f-p., 11; h-p., 32.)

James Hilary Andoe entered the Navy, 12 Dec. 1804, as Second-cl. Vol., on board the Greyhound 32, Capt. Chas. Elphinstone, off Havre de Grace; proceeded to the East Indies towards the close of 1806, as Midshipman of the Macassar 36, Capt. Wm. Wilbraham; there served, from Sept. 1807, until July, 1812, the last three years as Master's Mate, on board the Russel and Minden 74's, flag-ships of Admiral Wm. O'Brien Drury; was then successively appointed, in a similar capacity, to the Melgrave and Swiftsure 74's, Capts. Thos. Jas. Maling and Wm. Henry Webley, on the Home, Mediterranean, and West India stations; and on 4 Feb. 1815, was promoted to his present rank. He has not since been employed.

ANDREW, C.B. (Rear-Admiral, 1846. f-p., 16; h-p., 33.)

John William Andrew is the son of a clergyman.

This officer entered the Navy, in June, 1798, as A.B., on board the Foudroyant 80, Capt. Sir Thos. Byard. After witnessing the capture, in the following October, of a squadron of French ships under Commodore Bompart, destined for the invasion of Ireland, he removed, as Midshipman, to the Royal George 100, bearing the flag of Lord Bridport in the Channel, where, and on the Mediterranean and East and West India stations, he subsequently served in the Seahorse 38, Capt. Edw. Jas. Foote, Blanche 36, Capt. Zachary Mudge, and Conqueror, Leopard, and Canopus, Capt. (afterwards Rear-Admiral Sir Thos.) Louis. While under the latter officer, he served in the Leopard's boats in the celebrated catamaran attack of 1804 on the Boulogne flotilla, and was present in the Canopus in Sir John Duckworth's action off St. Domingo, 6 Feb. 1806. Being advanced to the rank of Lieutenant 2 April following, Mr. Andrew next joined, on 24 July in the same year, the London 98, Capt. Thos. Western, under whom he subsequently escorted the royal family of Portugal to the shores of South America. In July, 1809, he was appointed to the Ajax 74, Capt. Robt. Waller Otway, and during the two years that followed he saw a good deal of active boat-service in the Mediterranean. After acting for six weeks as Captain of the Rainbow frigate, he assumed official command, 26 Sept. 1811, of the Weazle 18, and on 21 Feb. 1812, was in company with the Victorious 74, in the Gulf of Venice, when that ship encountered an enemy's squadron, consisting of the Rivoli 74, Mercure and Jéna, of 18 guns each, and Mamelouck 8. During the operations that ensued, Capt. Andrew, whose exertions were extremely creditable, was for 40 minutes engaged in close action with the Mercure, which eventually blew up; then chased and put to flight the Jéna, by whom he had also been opposed; and, having likewise driven off the Mamelouck, bore up to the assistance of the Victorious, stood across the bows of the Rivoli, and twice poured in a broadside—shortly after which the latter ship surrendered.* For his gallant and exemplary conduct he was presented, on completing his time, with a Post commission, dated 26 Sept. 1812. He lastly officiated as Captain, from 1 Oct. 1814, to 24 Jan. 1816, of the Dee 24, and during that period visited Hudson's Bay. He accepted his present rank 1 Oct. 1846.

Rear-Admiral Andrew was nominated a C.B. 4 June, 1815.

paid off in the early part of 1835, in command of the SAMARANG 28, in South America, and from 24 Feb. 1837 until superseded in June, 1839, as Flag-Captain, in the HOWE 120, to Sir Robt. Waller Otway, Commander-in-Chief at the Nore.

Capt. Paget married, first, in 1836, Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Annals; and secondly, 20 Jan. 1840, Emily Caroline, daughter of Henry M'Clintock, Esq., Collector of the Customs at the port of Dundalk, and sister of Lieut. Fras. Leopold M'Clintock, R.N. AGENTS—Messrs. Stilwell.

PAGET, LORD, M.P. (CAPTAIN, 1839.)

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE LORD CLARENCE EDWARD PAGET, born 17 June, 1811, is eldest son of Field-Marshal the Marquis of Anglesey, K.G., G.C.B., by his second wife, Lady Charlotte Cadogan, sister of Rear-Admiral Earl Cadogan, C.B. He is brother of Lord Alfred Henry Paget, M.P. for Lichfield, and of Lord Geo. Augustus Fred. Paget, both officers in the army; half-brother of Lord Wm. Paget, Captain R.N.; and brother-in-law of Viscount Sydney and the Earl of Sandwich.

This officer entered the Navy 29 May, 1823; served as Midshipman of the ASIA 84, flag-ship of Sir Edw. Codrington, at the battle of Navarin, 20 Oct. 1827; passed his examination in 1830; and obtained his first commission 14 May, 1831. His succeeding appointments were—11 Aug. 1831, to the WARSPITE 76, flag-ship of Sir Thos. Baker in South America—27 Feb. 1832, as Supernumerary-Lieutenant, to the ST. VINCENT 120, Capt. Humphrey [illegible] Senhouse, stationed off Lisbon, whence he returned in the early part of 1833—and, 7 June, 1834, to the WINCHESTER 52, Capt. Edw. [illegible], fitting at Chatham. Being advanced to the rank of Commander 25 Sept. in the year last mentioned, he obtained command, 17 Jan. 1837, of the PEARL 20, on the North America and West India station. He paid that vessel off within a short period of his elevation to Post-rank, which took place 26 March, 1839; and he was next appointed—26 June following, to the HOWE 120, flag-ship of Sir Robt. Waller Otway at the Nore, where he remained until July, 1840—and, 23 Aug. 1841, to the ASIA 24, fitting for the Mediterranean. He returned to England in the summer of 1845, and has since been on half-pay.

In July, 1846, his Lordship was appointed Secretary to the Board of Ordnance; and in 1847 he was returned to Parliament as Member for Sandwich. AGENTS—Hallett and Robinson.

PAGET, (COMMANDER, 1837. F-P., 19; H-P., 28.)

JOHN PAGET entered the Navy, 4 March, 1800, as A.B., on board the MINORCA sloop, Capt. Geo. Miller, under whom we find him in the course of the following year employed as Midshipman and Master's Mate in the operations against the French in Egypt. Quitting the MINORCA in Oct. 1801, he served during the next five years, on the Mediterranean and Home stations, in the GREYHOUND 32, Capts. Chas. Ogle and Wm. Hoste, DIOMEDE 50, Capts. Thos. Larcom and Hugh Downman, UNITÉ 38, Capt. Chas. Ogle, and PRINCE 98, Capt. Wm. Lechmere. Being appointed, on the occasion of his promotion to the rank of Lieutenant, which took place 20 Dec. 1806, to the OLYMPIA sloop, Capt. Wm. Taylor, he sailed in that vessel for the Rio de la Plata. He invalided home in July, 1807; and was next, between Nov. 1808 and Feb. 1809, employed under Capt. John Surman Carden in the VILLE DE PARIS 110. During that period he assisted in embarking the army after the battle of Corunna. From the date last mentioned Lieut. Paget did not again go afloat until nominated, 22 Jan. 1828, First of the HARPY 10, Capt. Chas. Rich, on the West India station. On 11 Jan. 1829 he was removed to the MAGNIFICENT, receiving-ship at Jamaica, of which vessel, it appears, he retained command from 19 Dec. 1831 until May, 1839. He was re-appointed to her 24 Feb. 1842; and on 26 of the following July was transferred to the IMAUM, also a receiving-ship. He has been on half-pay since 1843. His present commission bears date 1 April, 1837.

Commander Paget married, 15 Sept. 1834, at St. Ann's, Jamaica, Anna, daughter of Jas. Lawrence Hilton, Esq. AGENTS—Messrs. Stilwell.

MARTIN PAIN entered the Navy, 4 June, 1803, as Midshipman, on board the SULPHUR bomb, Capt. Daniel M'Leod; and while in that vessel was frequently in action with the enemy's gun-boats and batteries in the neighbourhood of Boulogne, was engaged in an attempt to sink two stone-ships at the entrance of the harbour at that place, and united in the bombardment of Granville. each 2 guns in the bow, off the island of Rhio, in the strait of Singapore. In the DIANA, before proceeding to the Walcheren, he had charge of the French coast from Dunkerque to Fécamp.

DENHAM, F.R.S. (CAPTAIN, 1846.)

HENRY MANGLES DENHAM assisted in surveying the Channel Islands (Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, &c.). He acted as Chief Assistant in the survey of the English and St. George's Channels, from the Straits of Dover to the edge of soundings; of the coast of Ireland from the Shannon to Belfast, including Beerhaven, Crookhaven, Valentia, Baltimore, Glandore, Cove of Cork (entrance), Youghall, Waterford, Carlingford, Strangford, Ardglass, Belfast, Copeland Isles, and Larne; and of the English coast, including Falmouth (Sound), Helford, Manacles (reef), St. Helen's Pool, Scilly Islands, Skerries, Start Bay, Salcombe, Plymouth Sound, and Dartmouth. He has concluded, too, the survey of the Bristol Channel throughout, including Hartland Quay, Clovelly, Barnstaple Bar, Appledore, Ilfracombe, Minehead, Watchet, Bridgewater, Kingroad off the Avon, Cardiff, Newport, Chepstow, Swansea, the Mumbles, Llanelly, Estuary of Bury, Carmarthen, Tenby, Milford Haven, Solvach, St. Bride's Bay, and Lundy Island; and of the coasts of Lancashire and Cumberland, with the Dee (to Chester), Liverpool Bay, and the Mersey; Morecombe Bay, including Fleetwood, Lancashire, and Piel a Foudra; and the Duddon and Ravenglass estuaries, Whitehaven, Workington, Harrington, Maryport, and Douglas, Isle of Man. The rank of Commander was conferred on him as a reward for the talent he had displayed in the execution of his surveying services generally, and in particular to mark the high sense entertained by the Lords of the Admiralty of the advantages accruing to the public from the completion of his survey of the port and harbour of Liverpool and the neighbouring coast. The return of the port of Liverpool to the mere capacity of a half-tide harbour Capt. Denham succeeded in averting by harrowing a new opening through the Burbo and Jordan Sands, which, on the accession of Her Majesty to the throne, was named the "Victoria Channel." In reference to a steam survey made by him in the North Sea, the present Hydrographer of the Admiralty, Sir Fras. Beaufort, declared it to be his conviction "that no man would have achieved that great work with more skill;" and, in remarking upon the survey of Morecombe Bay, the same eminent authority recorded it as his opinion "that a more complete and masterly work had rarely been sent to the Admiralty Office." In allusion to Capt. Denham's services in the AVON, on the coast of Africa, whither he had been sent for the express purpose of surveying the Right of Benin, the Hydrographer thus expresses himself: "In examining a survey made in such a deleterious climate, along such an impracticable coast, and in contact with such a treacherous population, I was prepared to make great allowances for work done under such striking disadvantages; but I find, with equal pleasure and surprise, that the whole has been performed with all the precision and fulness that could have been expected if made under the most favourable circumstances." For this service Capt. Denham was promoted to Post-rank. Subsequently to his return to England he executed several commissions with reference to the steam marine from the Lords Committee of the Privy Council for Trade, under the conjoint authority of the Board of Admiralty, and also with reference to harbour improvements at Swansea and Bideford. His name continued, as a Supernumerary, on the books of the WILLIAM AND MARY yacht, until the summer of 1847. Capt. Denham has been appointed Inspector of Steam-boat Accidents. He is the inventor of "Denham's Rowlocks" for rowing boats; and of "Denham's (registered) Fairy-Tiller" for steering a ship on fire aloft, or when twisting her rudder-head, breaking her tiller in a gale of wind, or receiving the enemy's shot.

DICKINSON. (CAPTAIN, 1832.)

THOMAS DICKINSON, when a Midshipman of the DREADNOUGHT, assisted in the boats of that ship at the capture and destruction of numerous convoys off Cadiz. He first attracted the notice of the late Lord Collingwood by the judgment and conduct he displayed during a heavy gale in bringing alongside of the ship for which they were intended several long spars, which had been taken into tow by the boats of the fleet under an officer whose want of skill had greatly endangered the lives of his men, and whom he had been in consequence sent to supersede. So pleased at his general behaviour was the Admiral that he took him with him as his follower into the ROYAL SOVEREIGN, and generally selected him for any particular piece of service that was to be performed. The opinion entertained of him, indeed, by Lord Collingwood may be inferred from the annexed extract from an official letter addressed by the latter to the First Lord of the Admiralty, subsequently to the battle of Trafalgar:—"After the action, to supply the vacancies, I gave acting-orders to young men who were recommended to me for their activity, and, amongst others, to a Mr. Dickinson, whom I found in the DREADNOUGHT and removed with me to the ROYAL SOVEREIGN, because he had more knowledge of his profession than is usual, and seemed to be the spirit of the ship when anything was to be done." After he had been promoted, Mr. Dickinson was appointed by Lord Collingwood First-Lieutenant of the ACTIVE. While serving with his Lordship he had been at one time, we may add, for 14 months at the blockade of Cadiz without casting anchor. In the memoir given in the body of this work we have noticed the fact that Mr. Dickinson was present at the capture of La Tvave. He was also on that occasion First-Lieutenant. In his despatch to Lord Keith, Capt. Tobin makes the following honourable mention of him:—"The zeal and professional talents of Mr. Dickinson I have long known and endeavoured to appreciate, and on all occasions have sought with avidity his clear and comprehensive counsel; nor is it possible that I can ever cease to cherish a remembrance of it with the warmest gratitude." During the action Mr. Dickinson had his thigh and knee both broken; he was severely contused, too, on the head, and received several minor wounds in different parts of the body. So severe were his sufferings that he was for seven months confined to the Hospital at Plymouth. At the end of that period he was discharged as incurable; and it was not until two years later that he was enabled to serve again. For his conduct he was promoted to the rank of Commander. While senior officer, in the LIGHTNING, in the Rio de la Plata, he had the good fortune, with the assistance of the British Vice-Consul, to effect a reconciliation between Generals Lavalleja and Fructuoso Rivera, at a period when those personages were contending for the Presidency of Monte Video, and by their operations had brought about a state of things very inimical to the commercial interests of Great Britain. In Dec. 1830, while refitting at Rio de Janeiro on his return from a voyage to the Pacific, Capt. Dickinson heard for the first time of the wreck of the THETIS; which frigate had struck against the cliffs of the uninhabited island of Cape Frio, on the coast of Brazil, and had gone down in deep water in the open ocean with 810,000 dollars on board. From the thoroughly exposed nature of the spot at which the disaster had occurred, and the utter absence of the ordinary implements of submarine operation, the recovery of any part either of the stores or of the vast amount of treasure engulfed was deemed altogether hopeless. Possessed, however, of a mind ever fertile in resources, and endowed with that spirit of determination and enterprise which brooks no obstacle, and is always necessary to the execution of a bold design, Capt. Dickinson, with no other means at his disposal than such as could be drawn from the slender vessel he commanded, resolved on making the great attempt. Much do we regret that our limits do not permit of our entering into a detail of the contrivances he adopted, the dangers he braved, the impediments he encountered. After struggling for 14 months with difficulties unparalleled, surrounded often with sickness, and in the midst always of privation and want, the issue of his persevering exertions, and of the consummate mechanical and nautical skill he has called into action, was seen in the triumphant recovery of all the guns and stores, and of about 600,000 dollars. He was then relieved by Capt. Hon. John Fred. Fitzgerald De Ros of the ALGERINE 10, who, availing himself of the machinery already constructed, rescued 150,000 dollars more. With a constitution broken by the fatigue he had undergone, Capt. Dickinson returned to England, and years elapsed before he was restored to comparative health. Short, however, of his promotion to Post-rank, he obtained from the Admiralty not the least token of approbation for the almost superhuman undertaking he had accomplished. In 1842, to mark the sense they entertained of the ingenuity he had evinced at Cape Frio in converting water-tanks into diving-bells, the Society of Arts presented him with a gold medal. The regret we feel at being deprived of the pleasure we should have in entering more at large into a history of Capt. Dickinson's achievement is somewhat mitigated by his having already published 'A Narrative of the Operations for the Recovery of the Public Stores and Treasure sunk in H.M.S. THETIS,' &c.; a volume which should unquestionably be read by those who are disposed to take interest in an account of perhaps the most astonishing performance of the kind ever achieved by the Captain of a British man-of-war. Capt. Dickinson was admitted into the Royal Hospital at Greenwich 26 Aug. 1847.

DILLON, Kt., K.C.H. (REAR-ADMIRAL OF THE WHITE, 1846.)

SIR WILLIAM HENRY DILLON was often during the war employed, as we have already noticed, on the extra-duty of carrying flags of truce, owing in a great measure to the knowledge he possessed of the French language. It was on many of those occasions in his power, by timely concessions—made, indeed, on his own responsibility, but always with a degree of judgment that called forth the warm thanks and approbation of the Commander-in-Chief—to assuage the angry feelings of our enemies, and thereby to facilitate the exchange of prisoners. The attack upon the French frigates at St. Eustatia was made by a British squadron, consisting, with L'AIMABLE, of the BELLONA and INVINCIBLE 74's and LAPWING 28. It was not, however, persisted in, inasmuch as the island was Dutch, and it was found impossible to destroy the frigates without inflicting material injury on the town. The expeditious manner in which, although the service was attended with risk, Mr. Dillon, aided by a brother officer, succeeded, when in the GLENMORE, in securing the person of the Irish rebel before alluded to, whose name was Skallion, elicited the thanks of a Court-martial at the time sitting to try such offenders. In July, 1803, as we have stated, he was sent with a flag of truce from Lord Keith to the Dutch Commodore Valterbeck; who, to his surprise, detained him, separated him from his men, and placed him in confinement on board a small armed schooner lying in the outer anchorage. At the end of eight days he received an answer to his despatch from the Hague, and was told that he might depart. As he was in the act of making sail, however, to rejoin his ship, an armed launch belonging to a French frigate came alongside, and, as he had no means of resistance, compelled him, although he was under a flag of truce, to surrender. Ultimately he was ordered to Verdun, where he remained, in spite of a demand made by the British Government for his release through Lords Yarmouth and Lauderdale, until Sept. 1807, when he was at length, through private influence, restored to liberty. In the action with the Lougen Capt. Dillon had 2 men killed and 9 wounded. He was for nearly 30 years Equerry to the Duke of Sussex.

DORVILLE. (LIEUTENANT, 1841.)

JOHN WILLIAM DORVILLE became First-Lieutenant of the JUNO in Nov. 1845, and continued to serve as such in the GRAMPUS 50, Capt. Henry Byam Martin, to which ship he was removed 10 July, 1847, until paid off in Oct. 1848.

DUNN. (COMMANDER, 1814.)

NICHOLAS JAMES CUTHBERT DUNN is married and has issue (with one daughter, Frances Emelia, married to Wm. Crofton, Esq., Surgeon R.N.) three sons — the eldest, Richard Marsh, in the Customs in London; the second, Montagu Buccleuch, a Lieutenant R.N.; and the youngest, William James, First-Lieutenant R.M. (1848).

FALCON. (REAR-ADMIRAL OF THE BLUE, 1848.)

GORDON THOMAS FALCON was at the blockade of the Dutch coast in the SHEERNESS; and in the ANDROMEDA at the taking of the Danish and Swedish islands in the West Indies in 1801. He was First-Lieutenant of the BARFLEUR when Lord Wellington occupied the lines of Torres Vedras. His promotion to Flag-rank took place 1 Aug. 1848; on which occasion he was superseded in the Superintendentship of Pembroke Dockyard.

FORDYCE. (COMMANDER, 1841.)

ALEXANDER DINGWALL FORDYCE was elected M.P. for the city of Aberdeen in Aug. 1847.

GRACE. (CAPTAIN, 1825.)

PERCY GRACE and those who had been wrecked with him in the GREYHOUND were taken from Manilla to Batavia by the French frigates Cannonière and Laurel. When commanding the CYRENÉ he was the first who commenced the destruction of barracoons or slave-factories on the coast of Africa. Among the vessels which were captured and detained by the CYRENÉ and her boats were the Aurora Dutch schooner, of 144 tons, 4 guns, and 26 men, L'Hypolite schooner (under French colours), of 95 tons, 2 guns, and 19 men, and the Caroline French schooner, of 78 tons, 2 guns, and 20 men.

HAMOND. (CAPTAIN, 1846.)

ANDREW SNAPE HAMOND was much employed in the TALBOT in the suppression of piracy in the Archipelago, and was present at the capture of a piratical corvette of 18 guns from under the batteries at Hydra. He assisted also at the reduction, by the combined forces of Great Britain and France, of Morea Castle, the last hold of the Turks in the Peloponnesus. When a Lieutenant of the MELVILLE he obtained the thanks of the Royal Humane Society on vellum "for his gallant attempt to save the life of Lieut. John Gore, on the occasion of his jumping overboard in a heavy gale of wind off the Cape of Good Hope to save the life of a seaman." Lieut. Jas. Lewis Fitzgerald, and several others who united in the vain endeavour to rescue Mr. Gore, were drowned. In 1839, while on his passage home from the West Indies in the PIGEON packet, Capt. Hamond, at personal risk, and with injury indeed to himself, was the means of preserving that vessel from being burnt at sea, by extinguishing a fire which, through the carelessness of her crew, had broken out in the hold. The SALAMANDER he commanded for nearly five years. During that period he proved instrumental, by the valuable assistance he afforded, to the suppression of an alarming conflagration which broke out, and lasted for two days, in the town of Valparaiso. For his conduct he received, as did his officers and ship's company, many of whom were hurt, the special thanks of the President of Chili, the Governor of Valparaiso, and his own Commander-in-Chief, Rear-Admiral Rich. Thomas. He was also for two years employed at Otaheite; and for several important services which he there performed he was promoted to the rank he now holds, at the particular recommendation of Sir Geo. Fras. Seymour, who had succeeded Rear-Admiral Thomas. Capt. Hamond has taken out a patent for a plan, which has been successfully tried, of reefing and of taking off paddle-floats. He is the inventor, likewise, of a system of connecting and disconnecting engines; and of a new and approved principle of propelling vessels, without the aid of wheels or screw.

HARRIS. (Commander, 1841.)

Robert Harris is brother of the late Sir Wm. Cornwallis Harris, a Major in the E. I. Co.'s Engineers (known in the literary world as the author of 'The Wild Sports of Southern Africa,' 'Portraits of the Game and Wild Animals of Southern Africa,' and 'The Highlands of Ethiopia'), who received the honour of Knighthood for his diplomatic services at the Court of Shoa, in Abyssinia. Commander Harris was for five years and eight months Gunnery-Lieutenant of the Melville. He has been employed since 1 March, 1848, as Second-Captain in the Ganges 84, Capt. Henry Smith, on particular service.

HELPMAN. (Commander, 1842. F-p., 21; H-p., 5.)

Philip Augustus Helpman is brother of the present Lieut. Benj. Fras. Helpman, R.N., and of Lieut. John Robt. Crichton Helpman, R.N. (1838), who died in 1841 while serving in the Mediterranean as Assistant-Surveyor with Capt. Thos. Graves in the Beacon.

This officer* entered the Navy, 19 July, 1821, as Fst.-cl. Vol., on board the Windsor Castle 74, Capt. Chas. Dashwood. Being a Midshipman of that ship in 1824 when Don John of Portugal sought refuge on board of her, he was by the latter presented, as were others, with a medal commemorative of the event. He was subsequently employed, for two years, in affording protection, in the Primrose 18, Capts. John Stoddart and Octavius Vernon Harcourt, to the trade in the West Indies, then much infested with pirates. In Oct. 1826, having invalided home in the Ringdove sloop, Capt. Edwin Ludlow Rich, he joined the Forte 44, Capt. Jeremiah Coghlan, and sailed for South America; whence in 1828 he returned to England as Mate, a short time after he had passed his examination, in the Ranger 28, Capt. Lord Henry Fred. Thynne. He served next, for nearly eight years, in the Mediterranean, in the capacity last mentioned, in the Medusa 74, Capts. Chas. Marsh Schomberg and Christopher John Williams Nesham, Britannia 120, flag-ship of Sir Pulteney Malcolm, and Thunderer 84, Capt. Wm. Furlong Wise. He then, in Feb. 1837, joined the Howe 120, flag-ship of Sir Robt. Waller Otway at the Nore; and in the ensuing March he became Senior-Mate of the Fair Rosamond schooner of 2 guns, Lieut.-Commander Wm. Browne Oliver, fitting for the coast of Africa. On 10 Oct. in the same year, while working out of Benin river, he attacked, in the Fair Rosamond's gig, a brig, armed with 3 18-pounders, and maintained an action which, after seven hours of exertion, terminated in the latter being compelled, with a loss to the gig of 1 man killed and several wounded, to bear up for the river, where she was in a few days captured by the Fair Rosamond. For this and other services Mr. Helpman, on the recommendation of Lieut. Oliver and the Commander-in-Chief, Rear-Admiral Hon. Geo. Elliot, was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant 26 March, 1839. In 1840 he sailed for China in the Blenheim 72, Capt. Sir Humphrey Fleming Senhouse. On his arrival there he was placed in command of the Mahomed Shaw armed ship, of 12 guns; and from that vessel he was removed, in the early part of 1841, to the Columbine 16, Capts. Thos. Jordaine Clarke and Wm. Henry Anderson Morshead. He subsequently (besides participating in the second series of operations against Canton, and assisting at the capture of Amoy and Chinghae) served with the naval brigade in the attacks upon Chusan, Ningpo, Yuh-Yah, Tsekee, Funwah, Sheipoo, Woosung, and Shanghae. On the arrival home of the Columbine, in March, 1843, with part of the first instalment of the Chinese ransom, he found that for his conduct during the war he had been promoted to the rank of Commander by a commission bearing date 23 Dec. 1842.

* He had previously, in 1819, (while on board the Seagull, a schooner commanded by his father, Lieut. Philip Helpman,) taken part in an affair at Corrijou noticed in our memoir of Commander James Stirling.

LUSHINGTON. (Captain, 1829.)

Stephen Lushington fought in the Cambrian at the battle of Navarin, 20 Oct. 1827. On the death of Sir Robt. Oliver, in 1848, he was appointed to succeed that officer in the Superintendentship of the Indian Navy; and he was in consequence superseded in the command of the Vengeance.

PACE. (Lieutenant, 1821.)

Edmund Howard Pace is the son of a Chaplain in the Navy. One of his brothers filled the same rank in the Service; and two of them were officers in the Army. During the war with America he saw much boat work in the Chesapeake, and was engaged in frequent skirmishes with the enemy. In the affair at Corrijou he held the rating of Master's Mate, and brought out the last of the captured vessels. For his conduct at the battle of Algiers he was mentioned in honourable terms by Lord Exmouth to the Prince Regent. He served during the Burmese war in the Columbine and Arachne: on its conclusion he returned home in the latter vessel with despatches.

PARKER. (Commander, 1814.)

Frederick Augustus Hargood Parker was actively employed, while stationed in the Baltic, in affording protection to convoys passing through the Belts; and was at one time detached every night for nearly five weeks on boat-service. He was often in consequence engaged in action with the enemy's gun-vessels. When First-Lieutenant of the Nightingale he united in the attack of 1807 upon Copenhagen. On the surrender of the Danish fleet he escorted to Yarmouth the officer charged with the delivery of Admiral Gambier's despatches; and on his return he assisted in fitting the Danish prizes for sea, and in then conducting them to England.

PELLY. (Commander, 1844.)

Richard Wilson Pelly, during his command of the Rose, performed good and valuable service. While stationed for some time in the Gulf of Florida, he had the good fortune, without a blow, to settle a formidable rebellion in the islands of Magdalene; and when senior officer at the blockade of Vera Cruz, on the outbreak of the war between Mexico and the United States, he made such important arrangements with the contending parties as to secure for the royal mail steamers advantages not usual in cases of blockade. For his able and judicious conduct he obtained the high approbation of his Commander-in-Chief, Sir Fras. Wm. Austen, and of the Board of Admiralty, and received very flattering testimonials from the merchants and the British Minister at Mexico. At a period, too, when hostilities were daily expected to take place between Great Britain and the United States, he contrived by an admirable stroke of diplomacy (although three frigates, two large steamers, four corvettes, and several smaller vessels belonging to the latter power were on the station) to procure the removal to the Havana of two large steamers lying up the river Alvarado, which had been built and armed for the Mexican Government, and which, in the event of a rupture, would in all probability have been seized and turned against us by the Americans. The situation in which Commander Pelly was at this juncture placed was responsible in the extreme, inasmuch as the least indiscretion on his part might of itself have led to a collision between the two countries.* He was subsequently joined by the Vesuvius steamsloop and the ENDYMION 44; yet, although the Captains of those vessels, Geo. Wm. Douglas O'Callaghan and Geo. Robt. Lambert, were each senior to himself, the state of their health was such that he had the duty still to perform. So afflicted with sickness was the crew of the VESUVIUS, that it was found necessary, soon after her arrival, to send her for a change of climate to Halifax; but her engineers having been carried off by fever, and her coals being nearly all expended, a formidable obstacle presented itself. In this emergency Commander Pelly was induced to apply for aid to the Royal Mail Steam-Packet Company; and as he had been the means not long before of procuring for the latter certain privileges already noticed, his request was forthwith acceded to, and the public service thereby materially benefited. During the many months that he was on the Mexican station, although his own health suffered from the anxiety to which he was exposed, that of his crew, owing to the sanitary measures he adopted, was preserved. Previously to embarking in the service we have here detailed, the Commander had been employed in protecting the fisheries in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, in a manner that had gained the approval of the Commander-in-Chief.

PHEPOE. (RETIRED COMMANDER, 1848.)

JOHN PHEPOE served with the boats of the ARMIDE, and of the CHRISTIAN VII. 80 and SEINE 36, eight in number, under Lieut. Gardiner Henry Guion, in a gallant attempt made, 13 Feb. 1810, to destroy part of a convoy which had got on a reef that projects from the point of Chatelaillon, between Aix and Rochelle. The vessels in question were protected by nine gun-boats, each carrying a 12-pounder carronade and 6 swivels, and rowing from 20 to 30 oars. One of the latter was boarded and carried, with a loss to the enemy of 2 men killed and 3 wounded. Lieut. Guion was promoted for his conduct to the rank of Commander. On the night of 27 Sept. following Mr. Phepoe contributed to the destruction, by the boats of the ARMIDE, the CALEDONIA 120, and VALIANT 74, the whole commanded by Lieut. Arthur Philip Hamilton (whose valour also obtained him promotion), to the capture of two brigs and the destruction of a third, lying at Pointe du Ché, near Rochelle, under a strong battery, which was at the same time stormed and taken by a party of marines.

RICHARDSON. (LIEUTENANT, 1822.)

SAMUEL RICHARDSON was present in the boats of the BACCHANTE in the affairs (detailed in our memoir of Capt. Hon. Henry John Rous) at Otranto, Karlebago, Gela Nova, Rovigno, Lesina, and Ragusa. He was also at the capture of Fiumé.

SARTORIUS, Kt. (CAPTAIN, 1814.)

SIR GEORGE ROSE SARTORIUS commanded the PYRAMUS 42 in 1826-8.

SEYMOUR, Kt., G.C.H. (REAR-ADMIRAL OF THE RED, 1841.)

SIR GEORGE FRANCIS SEYMOUR relieved Rear-Admiral Rich. Thomas in the chief command in the Pacific 13 Dec. 1844. In the early part of 1845 he exacted redress from the Peruvian government for injuries which had been inflicted on British subjects at Tacna and Arica, and, in concert with Mr. Adams, Chargé d'Affaires, compelled the dismissal of the Prefect of the department. After visiting Tahiti with the French Rear-Admiral Hamelin for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the indemnity due to Mr. Pritchard, H.B. Majesty's Consul, for the losses sustained by that gentleman, he proceeded to the Sandwich Islands and took such steps as were advisable to strengthen the position of the Consul-General, Miller, and to afford protection to British subjects against the predominance assumed by foreigners in the native governments. In the month of Nov. he returned to Tahiti in order to inquire into the previous independence of the N.W. group of the Society Islands, and to prevent the French from extending the protectorate they had induced Queen Pomare to yield by treaty beyond the limits of her sovereignty. In reference to this question Sir George visited the islands of Huahine, Raiatea, and Bola-bola, and traversed a part of the Pacific that had not before been navigated by a ship-of-the-line. Ultimately he had the satisfaction of announcing to the chiefs of the three islands that their independence was recognised both by Great Britain and France. During the discussion with the United States relative to the Oregon territory, the Rear-Admiral went to the North Pacific and remained principally at the same ports as the American squadron until matters were adjusted between the two governments. In 1846, the points at issue between the British agents and the Hawaian government having been submitted to his judgment, he disposed of them in such a manner as, in the opinion of H.M. Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to impress the Hawaian government with reliance on the justice and the disinterested views of the British government. His proceedings at Peru and the Society Islands had procured him similar expressions of approval. In 1847, when a general blockade was imposed by the Americans on the coast of Mexico, Sir Geo. Seymour adopted measures that had the effect of protecting British commerce on the west coast from injury during the war. He subsequently received payment from the Republic of Lima of the sums, due to British merchants, which had been promised to his predecessors; and he succeeded in obtaining, for the ships under his orders, indemnities, before evaded, from the revolutionary governments of Central America. In the early part of 1848 he re-examined the coal-mines in the province of Conception, in Chili, as well as in Valdivia and the island of Chiloe. In April of the same year he transferred the command he had held to Rear-Admiral Hornby; and on leaving Valparaiso he had the gratification of receiving a flattering expression of respect and good will from the British merchants there resident. He arrived at Spithead on 10 July, having, since his departure thence, sailed 76,000 miles. On the following day he struck his flag; and on the 25th he received from the Board of Admiralty a letter conveying to him "its entire approbation of his conduct during a command their Lordships deemed to have been of unusual responsibility and anxiety." It is worthy of remark, that, during the whole period of Sir G. F. Seymour's command, not a single court-martial took place.

His eldest son, Frns. Geo. Hugh, is now a Lieut.-Colonel in the Army and Equerry to Prince Albert; his eldest daughter married Chas. Corkran, Esq., of Long Ditton, co. Surrey, and not, as we have stated, a son of Sir T. J. Cochrane.

SEYMOUR. (CAPTAIN, 1844.)

GEORGE HENRY SEYMOUR commanded the WANDERER in the Yang-tse-Kiang at the close of the operations in China. While in the same vessel he obtained the public thanks of the Commander-in-Chief for his conduct in the boats, under Capt. Hon. Geo. Fowler Hastings of the HARLEQUIN 16, in an attack made, in company with those of the E. I. Co.'s steamer DIANA, on the piratical towns of Murdoo and Quallo Batto, in the island of Sumatra. He also received a letter of thanks from the Governor of the British Settlements in the Straits of Malacca, as well as the thanks of the Admiralty, for his exertions in proceeding 60 miles up the river Siac, in Sumatra, and recovering from the Rajah several convicts who had effected their escape from Singapore.

SNELL. (COMMANDER, 1843.)

In reference to that part of our memoir of COMMANDER GEORGE SNELL in which we have noticed the death of Lieut. Layton, we have to state further, that that officer had ascended the river Santa Fé in search of pirates with two boats belonging to the Icarus under his orders. Having captured one vessel at the source of the river and given the command of her to Mr. Snell, he proceeded up a branch of the stream in his own boat, the gig, leaving the other, the cutter, in company with the prize. He encountered the pirates during his absence, and, as we have already stated, was by them murdered. After this Mr. Snell remained for several days blockading the river in the above-named prize alone, with not more than 7 men, the cutter having returned to the Icarus with intelligence of that which had occurred.

THOMPSON. (Captain, 1846.)

Thomas Sparke Thompson, born 28 March, 1798, is son of the late Henry Thompson, Esq., a Captain in the Staff Corps, and subsequently Collector of H.M. Customs in the island of St. Thomas.

This officer entered the Navy, 25 Sept. 1810, as Sec.-cl. Vol., on board the Galatea 36, Capt. Woodley Losack; and on 20 May, 1811, was present off Madagascar in the frigate-action noticed in our memoir of Commander Thos. Bevis. After assisting at the blockade of Cherbourg he removed, as Midshipman, in 1813, to the Akbar 50, Capts. Sir Archibald Collingwood Dickson and Chas. Bullen; under whom he was for about four years employed on the Brazilian, North American, and Home stations. He served subsequently in the East Indies, again on the coast of North America, in the Channel and West Indies, and on the coast of Africa, as Midshipman and Master's Mate, in the Phaeton 46, Capts. Wm. Henry Dillon, Wm. Augustus Montagu, and Henry Evelyn Pitfield Sturt, and Maidstone 42, Commodore Chas. Bullen. While on the African station (where he was promoted by the officer last mentioned to the post of First-Lieutenant in the Victor sloop, Capt. Geo. Woollcombe) he saw much boat-service up the different rivers. On one occasion he had an officer (an Assistant-Surgeon) and 10 men drowned among the rollers at the entrance of the Bonny. An attack of fever, caught in the Bight of Benin, led to his being sent home as unfit for further duty. Before he joined the Galatea, he held the appointment of Junior-Lieutenant in the Seahorse 76, Capt. Fred. Warren, at Portsmouth; and while attached to the Royal Charlotte, of which vessel he was for some time First-Lieutenant, he had command of her tenders the Tiger and Quail. During the period he served in the Comus, Capt. Thompson had charge of the blockade of Maldonado and other ports, and also of the Buenos Ayrean squadron. In Oct. 1845 he was ordered to act as Captain in the Curaçoa 21; in which ship we find him conducting the blockade of Buenos Ayres. On his return to the Comus he was employed as Senior officer in the Parana and Uruguay, and in co-operating in different ways with the French squadron. He brought away, we may add, the distressed English and Europeans from Mercedes, in the Rio Negro.

Capt. Thompson married, 26 Oct. 1830, Henrietta, second daughter of the late Geo. Norman, Esq., of Bromley Common, Kent, by whom he has issue four children.

WALLIS. (Captain, 1819.)

Provo William Parry Wallis did not actually go to sea until he joined the Cleopatra in Sept. 1800. His name had been only borne on the books of the Oiseau, Prévoyante, and Asia. He was wrecked in the Curieux 21 Sept. 1809; the date we have elsewhere given being that of the court-martial which took place on the occasion. In the Gloire he was present, 18 Dec. 1809, at the destruction of the 40-gun frigates Loire and Seine, and of the batteries of Ance la Barque, Guadeloupe. For his conduct at the capture of the Chesapeake he received a letter of approbation from the Admiralty. The Niemen was at first intended for service at the Cape of Good Hope, but her destination was changed. Capt. Wallis was specially deputed, in the Warspite, to watch the operations of the French at Mogador. His wife was a daughter of the Ven. Roger Massey. We should have styled his sister Lady James, not Lady Elizabeth, Townshend. In April, 1847, Capt. Wallis was offered the Good-Service Pension; but this he declined for the appointment of Naval Aide-de-Camp to the Queen. Agents—Hallett and Robinson.

WIDDRINGTON. (Commander, 1824.)

Samuel Edward Widdrington entered the Navy 31 Dec. 1802, and served—until made Lieutenant into the Fame 74—in the Ambuscade and Seine frigates, and Glory 98, Ocean 98, and Ville de Paris 110. At first he was in constant action with the enemy's batteries and flotilla in the neighbourhood of Boulogne. He was also most actively employed in the West Indies; where, in June, 1805, while cruizing in the Seine's barge under Lieut. (of Marines) Thos. Bland, he obtained mention for his conduct at the capture of a large felucca, the Concepcion, from Puerto Rico bound to Cadiz, laden with a cargo of cocoa and cochineal, and armed with 2 long 4-pounders and 14 men, 5 of whom were severely wounded, without, however, any loss to the British. He aided in making prize of many other vessels, and saw much boat-service on the coasts of Cayenne and Surinam. On leaving the Fame, in which ship he had been also actively employed, he joined, in 1810, the Resistance frigate. In her he assisted at the capture and destruction, on the coast of Tuscany, of a depôt of timber for the arsenal at Toulon. When First of the Swallow he united, 5 Oct. 1813, in an attack made by that vessel and the Edinburgh 74, Impérieuse 38, and Eclair and Pylades sloops, on the defences of Port d'Anzo, where a convoy of 29 sail fell into the hands of the British. On that occasion, after the fire of a tower, opposed to the Swallow, had been silenced, he landed and blew it up. In 1824 he was in attendance, with a division of boats under his orders, upon Don John of Portugal when that monarch sought refuge on board the Windsor Castle.

Commander Widdrington is the author of two works on Spain and of several minor contributions on scientific subjects. He is a Fellow of the Royal and Geographical Societies.
